

Amusements

Loew's Lyceum.

Just a dainty, offish little girl with wealth of curly golden hair and rosy blue eyes on whose lips continually plays a smile that, for all the world, is like the sunshine of her mouth. That is June Caprice, who greeted in person her screen friends of Memphis from the stage at Loew's Lyceum Thursday.

Miss Caprice is not an artist of the speaking stage. She makes no such claims. In fact, she admitted several times Thursday that this was her initial venture before the footlights and that she was completely bewildered. But that lack of histrionic ability does not depreciate one whit her graciousness and charm. It augments a personality that is so refreshing as to prompt superlatives.

One on seeing the heroine of "In Walked Mary" as she trips upstage to conceive the idea of her timidity, somewhat faulty diction and stage carriage was the result of very clever "Phasian" endeavors. Such is not so. She is just a little girl suffering from the identical malady that probably would overtake you were you to step before a theater crowded to the exits. And she is delightfully lovable and sweet for it.

"In Walked Mary" is a picture of the South where Mary finds Prince charming is a New Yorker. A trip to New York and various complications develop as the plot unfolds. The film is some 5,000 feet of June Caprice at her very best.

The vaudeville bill for the last half is not to be overlooked either. "Call Me Papa" is the sketch offered by Jimmy Rosen and company. It is a laugh producer well worth while. Wamsley and Keating got across with some clever gags that knock their hearers off their seats ere the close. A green tinted single typically Irish is the act Henry Keely uses to good advantage. Some material is good. The Bambinoes tumble into favor with some nutty acrobatic feats.

Orpheum.

"Surgeon Louder, U.S.A.," has been retired and Imhof, Conn and Corene are doing their bit in "In a Vet House," the title having nothing whatever to do with a refuge from contagion, but called from the number of posts that continue to pester the inhabitants at the house in question. Imhof, Conn and Corene are among the very best travesty artists engaged in promoting laughter in any form of theatrical. In vaudeville, they are known as "The Three." They have a thorough knowledge of travesty and a thorough understanding of farce. They not only know how to create a laugh but what to do with it after they create it as well. Their vehicles of the past "The Doings of Mr. Louder," "The Man From Klondike," and "Sam Louder, U.S.A." are the proof of this statement. "In a Vet House" deals with an old Irish peddler who because of the loss of his horse is compelled to spend the night at a wayside inn where he has more trouble than a one-armed paperhanger. A deaf porter with a checker mania, a baby of eight-cylinder lung power, a trained nurse who insists upon mistaking the peddler's room for that of her patients, are the pests in the pest house.

New Lyric.

David Meyerowitz, who will recite at the New Lyric theater Sunday, has lately won fame in the theatrical world, through the production of the now well-known drama, "The Victim of the World," showing therein that the actual victims of the world war were the so-called noncombatants.

The "Victims of the World" played successfully in every important Jewish center in the United States.

Hundreds of people interested in the Jewish folk lore have swarmed the Bureau of Jewish Lyric, which is managing the tour of Mr. Meyerowitz, with letters requesting that he tour the Southern states. Mr. Meyerowitz will leave for the East May 1 and this is positively his only tour through our states.

GOODWYN LECTURER TO DISCUSS IMMORTALITY

Large audiences have been attending the lectures of Dr. Samuel C. Schmucker on "By-Paths in Biology," at Goodwyn Institute this week, and have piled the speaker with questions at the close of each lecture. The course will end Friday night with a lecture on "Science and Immortality," which promises to be the most interesting of the whole series.

Here are a few of the many books in Goodwyn Institute library on that most vitally interesting of subjects—of special interest at this moment on account of Sir Oliver Lodge's visit to America: "Science and Immortality," by Sir Oliver Lodge; "Human Immortality," by William James; "The Assurance of Mortality," by Harry Fordick; "Human Personality and Its Survival of Bodily Death," by Frederic Myers; "Myers: 'The Law and the Word,'" by Judge Troward; "The Vital Message," by Sir A. Conan Doyle; "Contact With the Other World," by James H. Hyslop; "Raymond, or Life and Death," by Sir Oliver Lodge; "After Death," by W. T. Stead; "Psychical Investigations," by J. Arthur Hill; "Death, the Gate of Life," by H. A. Hall; "Experiments in Psychical Science," by W. J. Crawford; "The Law of Psychic Phenomena," by Dr. Thomas J. Hudson; "Ourselves After Death," by Arthur Chambers; "On the Threshold of the Unseen," by Sir William F. Barrett; "The Abolishing of Death," by Basil King; "The New Death," by Winifred M. Kirkland; "The Coming Science," by Hereward Carrington.

Dr. Schmucker will touch upon the contribution of Sir Oliver Lodge and other modern scientists and investigators of psychic phenomena to the solution of the great problem, "Does Death End All?" or "If a Man Die Shall He Live Again?"

JUST GAVE UP
SUFFERED SO

Weakness, Pains and Other Troubles Had Discouraged This Arkansas Lady--She Took Cardui, Found It Helpful. Got Well!

Harrisburg, Ark.—After serious symptoms had become apparent, Mrs. Belle Wilkerson, of Route 1, this place, says she "got worse and worse."

"I wasn't able to stand on my feet and had to go to bed," she explains. The . . . grew worse, and for about three weeks nothing seemed to do me any good. I grew so weak and nervous and could not sleep. I began to have pain in the lower part of my body, and all across my back. There was a great deal of soreness and pain in my left side. . . . I just gave up, for I suffered so. I grew discouraged and thought I was not going to get well.

"My head not only ached, but would feel so light and dizzy. . . . I decided then I would take Cardui, as I read of how many women it had benefited, and some whose case was like mine. When I began Cardui, just after a few days, I noticed a change. I slept better at night. . . . and felt like I could eat something. I got up and began to do the work in the house and yard, and after three or four bottles of Cardui I was well."

If you suffer from disorders peculiar to women, take Cardui—the Woman's Tonic. It should help you, like others, adv.

Moving Pictures

Strand.

When thousands upon thousands of people start to play the same game, a game that is unusual in its every detail, and yet quite simple, one naturally becomes interested. The game of "Polyanna," in other words, the game of being "glad," has swept this country from coast to coast and it has gotten such a stronghold upon the people that they have gone so far as to exclaim that "if there was a 'Polyanna' in every household, we would, in time, be able to close half of our hospitals and reformatories and sanatoriums—half of our medical schools and drug stores and we would put half our physicians and lawyers out of practice."

Mary Pickford appears in the screen version of "Polyanna" at the Strand theater today and Saturday.

Majestic.

The appearance of Dorothy Dalton at the Majestic theater this week in "Black Is White" recalls the sensational success which this pretty star scored recently in "Aphrodite," the Parisian spectacle, in New York. Incidentally, all the metropolitan newspapers hailed this as Miss Dalton's first appearance on the spoken stage. This is not quite true.

Princess.

"The Peddler," one of the most successful novels of the year, has been
